Something about the Male and Female Literary Outlaws of New York

[illegible]

Would you like to know how the Bohemians of the city enjoy themselves? Not those gorgeous specimens who wear white gloves to operas and always ride down town and wouldn't be seen buying peanuts at a corner stand for any amount [illegible] anything else not highly respectable. I mean those scribblers and artists who take the horse cars instead of omnibuses and walk frequently instead of taking either who mend their gloves and darn their trowsers and smoke five cent cigars and make their own bonnets. It is far from being genteel society to which I shall introduce you. Indeed its members would be anything but complimented by the word genteel. But we have a very cheerful [illegible] when the sun shines and [illegible] and canvasses are in demand. You would be surprised how [illegible] much geniality and brightness here [illegible] our personnel. [illegible] who [illegible] at society and morality because [illegible] the other had been [illegible] passed away. A few remnants of [illegible] and wear flowing hair and soft felt hats shapeless pattern, and keep mysterious acquaintances, and live by faith, for they scarcely seem to by work certainly; but the latter Bohemians are on better terms with the world and only depart from its rules when conventionalism stands opposed to convenience. Your New York Bohemian of to day is the younger branch of some good family. Ten to one his father was a [illegible] man. His education is liberal if not [illegible] If you want a man to write a poem in English and turn into Spanish Swedish and Russian you'll find a half dozen among these hard working scribes of journalists to do it for you before three o'clock in the afternoon.

Our Bohemian probably began his career by studying to be a painter; very likely he has been across the water, chipping specimens at Staffa and seeing the sun rise at Hammerfest; has visited Mabille, spent a winter at Rome among the artists, has admired an actress at home, had a pet model abroad and thoroughly lost taste for the strict unimaginative society of his own country. In final despair of rivaling Turner, displacing Millais or even paying rent for his lodgings by his pictures, the pencil is flung aside for the pen and he takes to writing for a living. A certain amount of romantic experience is necessary to inspire a common person to capability of writing, and you may be sure that pretty girls enough in his own circle have been willing to give him all the lessons he needs. Either he writes a novel which won't sell or begins by ephemera for the weekly papers—"Lyrics of Nature" or imitations of Tennyson or Swinburne at an [illegible] price, say five dollars for a poem.

His stories are melancholy and full of passion or are humorous in which case they are apt to be more melancholy still. The hard hand of life soon forces him into his groove, which may be that of drawing professor in a ladies school or teacher of languages or he may strike oil with his brushes and earn a modest living by painting landscapes, or pretty genre pieces; but the general fate is journalism. As "regular correspondent," sub editor or reporter he takes his place on one of the city papers and unless he has remarkable talent either for writing or business his fate is settled. His worldly prosperity if he avoids politics will hardly exceed five thousand a year—and half that only will be a reliance. If he is ambitious and smokes excessively he may see himself to keep company with his bright visions in a short time worn out with attrition of mind and matter. How many noble fellows have taken to their pillows in weary disappointment from the cause ask the first experienced newspaper man you meet to tell you. But if he takes as merchants say a general average of his abilities and the returns of life and keeps his old ambitions only to inspire him to do his dull work well after the first wholesome lessons of regret are over there is a good deal of pleasure to be had on four thousand or only one thousand. On fifteen hundred he will marry some pretty clever girl and go to boarding and all the storms that ever beset mortal fabrics cannot prevent them from being happy together.

The society and appreciation of cultivated men of his own calling will be worth much to him—his work may be inspiring or not as he chooses to make it for good work is stimulating not exhaustive. In a large city there are pleasures within the reach of all—and after awhile our Bohemian finds himself clinging fondly to [illegible] the bliss of the sunshine returns again the blood thrills at simple touches and forty atones for the disappointments and regrets of twenty five. But the Bohemian nature is unchanged; he will cut across corners instead of following the sidewalk; he will smoke in the parlor and on the street; eschews gloves and dress hats; loves to lie on the grass lazy afternoons; will know all sorts of people and be on good terms with them too from organ grinders and small actresses to lady sculptors and influential citizens.

There are numbers of the other sex in the literary but a feminine Bohemian is born [illegible] made. As a girl she was a good deal [illegible] to her family, and her escapades linger in village memory. She was more than half educated by her father and owes to that good fortune most of the strength which carries her through the trials in wait for her. She startled people with the [illegible] unexpected doings and sayings and was [illegible] frequently shocked herself at her own impulses. She was in love frequently and has her good angel to thank that she did not make proposals to more than one man in consequence. She had the woman's rights fever before she was out of [illegible] but after she left it, and found all the rights she wanted ready to her hand ceased to care about them in theory. What tragedies and adventures she has been through she keeps to herself or lets them escape only in the masquerade of a novel. She is too spirited to be held to the routine of teaching or marriage unless she adores the man to whom she is bound. A divorce or separation is usually a part of her history—which is a great pity. If single she is a favorite with most of the married men of her acquaintance, but rather dreaded by the young ones. Society men find her amusing but not accessible to flirtations—when she goes into that sort of thing it is in earnest. She is the woman you see down town at all sorts of unusual hours when the gay feminine race are strangers to its streets. She goes into out of the way offices in search of statistics; attends society meetings, and very likely belongs to a club of some sort. She is on bad terms with half her feminine acquaintances and doesn't think much of the rest but it is hardly fair to call her a woman hater. Let one of her sex be attacked unjustly or fall into trouble and she will be the first to stand a friend. You miss in her that wide spread flowering of the gentle graces which usually enamels the female character; a jaunty defiance, an eye too clear to suffer those friendly disguises which veil so much of life's infirmities, a caustic temper separate her from those tender and beautiful ideals which men worship. As for her virtues, they are such as the tribes of the desert reverence—perhaps a truth too candid, a generosity too romantic, a purity too secure to meet the approval of the world. Perhaps she is an artist with a studio where she makes tea for her luncheon or a woman's rights adherent in some business of her own, holding a patent right or overseeing some establishment [illegible] while she studies evenings; or she may be one of tribe of as some one has it. The Bohemienne is often a faulty but seldom an unsound character and seldomer still a bad one. You are among the outlaws—you shall hear of their life [illegible]

The text of the Papal allocution on the state of religion in Austria has been received. The Pope declares that the Concordant should have been regarded by Austria as perpetual in effect and he warns all persons who approve of the laws recently passed by the Reichsrath concerning the press, religious toleration, civil marriage and public education to beware of the pains and penalties attached to violations of the sacred rights of the Church. On the occasion of the delivery of this allocution in the consistory the Pope also announced that he had granted a general pardon and amnesty to those who invaded the States of the Church last year with a few specified exceptions.

Rufus Choate used to say the three most troublesome clients he ever had, were a young lady that wanted to get married, a married woman that wanted a divorce and an old maid that didn't know what she wanted.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO JULY 17

Congressional

WASHINGTON July 1[illegible]—In the Senate the credentials of Abbott and Pool Senators from North Carolina were presented and both gentlemen took the oath.

Sumner from the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported the Alaska appropriation bill with the section declaring rights of redness stricken out.

Cattell called up the bill providing for the issue of three per cent certificates to the amount of $25 000 000 for the purpose of retiring outstanding compound interest notes. After debate the bill passed.

A new conference committee was appointed on the bill to supply temporary vacancies in the executive department.

The credentials of Kellogg and Harris Senators from Louisiana were presented and both sworn in.

The Senate then proceeded to consider the deficiency appropriation bill to which a number of amendments had been attached by the committee which were variously disposed of.

The debate on the deficiency appropriation bill continued till near five o'clock when the Senate went into executive session and soon after took a recess till evening. During the debate Chandler stated that the Committee on Commerce has decided not to press to passage the river and harbor appropriation bill till next session.

At the evening session of the House the bill to pay Henrie St. Marie $10,000 for his services in procuring the arrest of Surratt, was passed.

The Alaska appropriation bill was passed omitting the section declaring the joint powers of the House with the President and Senate to contract treaties.

The deficiency appropriation bill was again considered.

In the House the Senate funding bill, reported from the Ways and Means Committee, was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The credentials from the Alabama representatives were referred to the Committee on Elections, when the House went into Committee of the Whole on the funding bill. The first amendment providing for only one class of bonds, was agreed to. During the discussion, Stevens took strong grounds in favor of paying 5-20's in greenbacks. He said I hold to the Chicago platform, and as I understand it on that point, to the New York platform that these bonds shall be paid according to the original contract.

A Member: The law Mr Stevens according to law.

Mr Pike: The spirit and the letter of the contract.

Mr Stevens: What was that law? That the interest should be paid up to a certain time at six per cent. in coin. After the bonds fell due it would be payable in money just as the gentleman from Illinois understood it. Just as he (Stevens) understood it. Just as all understood when the law was enacted. Just as was explained on the floor a dozen times by the chairman of the committee of Ways and Means. If he knew any party in the country would go for paying in coin that which was payable in money thus enhancing the debt one half; if he knew there was such a platform and such a determination on the part of his own party he would with Frank Blair and all vote for the other party. He would vote for no such swindle on the tax payers of the country.

The discussion was continued at [illegible] at length when the committee finally rose, and took recess till evening when the funding bill will [illegible] be considered. A number of amendments to various portions of the bill were proposed and generally rejected.

The Chinese Empire appears to be approaching a state of dissolution. The insurrection in the central provinces, which has been in progress for so long a time, is as vigorous as ever, while the principal movers therein do not appear to have any definite object or policy in view. Province after province seems to go into revolt, and recent rumors to the effect that disturbances of a serious magnitude are taking place on the extreme western borders of the Empire. Russia and England are evidently making preparations to take advantage of whatever may happen. The former will be prepared when the proper time comes, to increase her already [illegible] by slices from the northern and [illegible] of the Empire, with the view of ultimately [illegible] the shore of the Sea of Japan. England already has a corps of engineers seeking for a rail route across the southwestern portion of China, with the view of connecting the headwaters of the Bramahpootra Yangtse Kiang rivers with a railroad, and thereby establishing direct overland [illegible] communication between Calcutta and Shanghai. Such a route would [illegible] the distance between those two cities by more than one-half, or nearly 2 000 miles, and by avoiding the dangers of the China Sea, and the necessity for doubling the peninsula of Siam, would [illegible] a powerful competition with our overland railroad for the European travel between Western Europe and China. Should such probabilities appear to approach an early and definite [illegible] our own Government should not stand by as an idle and unconcerned spectator. The true policy for the United States is to [illegible] the native Government, so divested of its exclusiveness as to admit of free commercial relations with all the world.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO.—The President [illegible] the Omnibus bill [illegible] he says, it is inconsistent with the constitutional provision that [illegible] the regulation of suffrage to the States. It is not so at all. It admits the [illegible] ing the fourteenth [illegible] to the Constitution, and if these States adopt that it [illegible] part of the organic law. Being such, it will be supreme in the States on the subjects to which it refers. That amendment establishes anew, with direct declarative force the old Democratic principle that the States control suffrage. Then the Omnibus bill gives the States power in the very matter in which the President [illegible] that it denies power; for any provision contrary to the amendment are null, and [illegible] that is only in words and can have no [illegible] to the shadow at which the [illegible] strikes [illegible] narrow minded persistency. [illegible] the intellectual calibre of a President who refuses [illegible] to a good bill because it might be [illegible] his signature that he had changed his mind in regard to some other bill. This reference to one poor little thought at the [illegible] else is the indication of a small mind. It is the intellectual history of the monkey who [illegible] the pertinacious fly with the sledge hammer and quite forgot that he was using his master's [illegible] for an anvil.—New York Herald

At a late examination of fifty [illegible] divinity student in England one of the questions was as to the meaning of the word "hypothesis." NATIONAL UNION NOMINATIONS.

For President:

U. S. GRANT,

Of Illinois

For Vice President:

SCHUYLER COLFAX,

Of Indiana

For Presidential Electors:

O. JACOBS, of Jackson.
WILSON BOWLBY, of Washington.
A. B. MEACHAM, of Umatilla.

The Springfield Republican says that a son of Gen. Wade Hampton, of South Carolina, is working in that city. He is about the color of strong coffee.

One act of the Methodist Episcopal Convention at Chicago, was to rescind a vote of censure passed in 1836 upon two members of the body for attending an anti-slavery prayer meeting.

The Alta corrects a misstatement concerning Seymour's devotion to the Democratic party. "He did not hang the negroes in New York. He only called those who did so his 'noble friends.'"

The California Express, one of the oldest Democratic papers on the coast, refuses to hoist the names of Seymour and Blair. It says that Seymour was a sort of peace-and-war Democrat, and won't support him.

Even the frigid tongued and copper bottomed Round Table, is forced to admit that there is little prospect of making a successful stand against Grant and Colfax. Unwillingly it writes as though it knew the jig was up with the Democrats.

There is a crow's roost in Kentucky where, during winter, it is estimated that a million crows gather from all parts of the country. On a dark night, with torchlights, they are killed by hundreds. When spring comes they disperse to all parts.

Brooklyn claims officially that she has nearly ten thousand more building lots than the city of New York. The figures given are as follows: Brooklyn, 152,792; New York, 142,752. Brooklyn has Long Island to operate on, and New York only Manhattan.

The Philadelphia City Government has recognized the rights of the colored population to a share of the public school fund for the education of their children. They pay taxes for the support of the public schools, and were deemed entitled to a share of the benefits arising therefrom.

There is living in New Haven an old soldier of Napoleon 1st, who fought all through the campaigns of the Empire, including Waterloo. This veteran, who bears the name of Bertrand, is now in his eightieth year, and with his wife of the same age as himself, is dependent upon the kindness of friends for support.

In January, 1861, in a speech in New York, Seymour opposed the attempted coercion of the seceding States. He declared the claims of the rebel States just and reasonable; and while presiding at the Chicago Convention, three years after, he affirmed that the war could be stopped only by compromise. Such are his characteristics as a statesman.

The question of further prosecuting the work on the Hoosac tunnel has taken a new form in the Massachusetts Legislature, by the passage of a bill through the House authorizing the Governor and Council to put the whole unfinished work [illegible] contract, provided it can be done at a cost not exceeding five million dollars, and within a period not exceeding seven years.

It [illegible] that the poor white man is not worth his [illegible]. A Democratic paper assures us that [illegible] Yankee and nigger are driving the poor white man before them out of the Atlantic and Middle States." And quite right, too; if the poor white man hasn't the pluck to hold his ground, he ought to be driven by these queer drivers.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that Gen. Grant is unquestionably a tyrant, and in proof of this quotes the statement of rebel Pollard, that in 1863 Gen. [illegible] said to him that if he had the authority he would suppress half a dozen of leading [illegible] newspapers of the country. Yes—but if he had been a "tyrant," he would have [illegible] it without authority.

The San Francisco Times says that during the [illegible] of the New York Convention, the Examiner had a eulogistic article prepared for Pendleton, leaving the name blank, in case of accident. When Seymour had been nominated, the editor filled up the blank and shouted for Seymour with all his might. He would have done as much for [illegible] or Oregon Program.

The Philadelphia Press says: "The Republican party, widely united upon Grant and Colfax, contrasts with a [illegible] philosophy the Democratic [illegible]. No voice is [illegible] against Grant and Colfax or the platform on which they stand. Every [illegible] gave [illegible] to our military and civic [illegible] in 1864 is [illegible] for this ticket; no [illegible] of the party has raised an independent [illegible] or a protesting voice. Upon [illegible], great and small, there is either [illegible].

Speaking of Presidential nominations and the status of [illegible] Democrats "who kept their faith and integrity under all the trials and temptations of the late war," the Mobile Register says: "But this is another class of men, whom people appear to forget, and to whom our obligations are still higher. This class includes Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, [illegible] E. Johnson, and a few [illegible]. If we are to discard all consideration of policy or availability, why not go to this [illegible] principle or sentiment, and [illegible] of these at once?"

Speaking of the New York Convention, the San Francisco Times says: There was a great deal of joy [illegible] on the receipt of the news of the nomination yesterday—but by Grant men. Republicans generally are well satisfied. The Convention did as well as they could have expected—better [illegible] they dared to anticipate. So if the Democrats are satisfied we are all satisfied together; and the long drawn out Conventick may congratulate itself that it has, indeed, "given general satisfaction."

A San Francisco paper says: The nomination of Seymour and Blair have been somewhat variously received by the faithful. A real thorough [illegible] Democrat, yesterday, speaking on the subject, inquired, in a tone by no means suggestive of contentment within, "Why they had not nominated Grant outright!" To him the nomination of Seymour appeared to be equivalent to a proposal of that kind. Another Democrat, of a less [illegible] turn of mind, was heard declaiming violently in favor of Seymour. Above all others he was the man for him, "for," said he, "did he not hang all the nagurs in New York."

A notable feature of the New York Convention, and in great contrast with that of Chicago, consisted in the multiplicity of candidates, and the turbulence of its proceedings. While the Union candidate was nominated by acclamation, the Democratic Convention was thronged by eager contestants, who seemed to realize the great fame to result from a nomination by an expiring party. During the fearful period of a week, the fortunes of [illegible], half-sheet Union men, medium Generals and ambitious Judges swung by a slender thread, and at last the equivocal prize fell at the feet of one who receives it with many pretended expostulations.

FROM WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

A telegraph line will be established from Seattle to Port Townsend, touching at Port Madison, Port Gamble and Port Ludlow.

A man named Martin, living in Snohomish county, was struck on the head with a stone by a man named Logan, a few days ago. Death resulted in a short time.

It is stated that the steamer Suwanee, lately lost in Northern waters, struck a rock amidships near the entrance of the harbor of Fort Rupert and broke in two. The steamer, it is believed, will be a total loss.

The Port Townsend paper says: On Tuesday night we witnessed a most beautiful display of aurora borealis. The rays were so bright, lighting up the whole northern part of the heavens, that one would almost fancy the sun had lost his reckoning and was about to pop up over Alaska.

Congress and the Suffrage.

The New York Independent continues its spiteful attack upon the Republican party for not asserting in its platform that it is the right and duty of Congress to enforce universal suffrage in every State of the Union. It is singular that men who possess intelligence and who ought to have good judgment, do not perceive the impracticability of this doctrine. Setting aside the question as to its constitutionality, it ought to be clear to every one that the doctrine could not be enforced. Several States recently voted negatively on this suffrage proposition; and it is absurd to suppose that the Federal Government could enforce such a law in them. Even if the Republican party believed that Congress has the constitutional power to enact a universal suffrage law, nothing could be gained by making the doctrine a part of their platform. But the Republican party does not believe and never has asserted that such a power belongs to Congress. The result of the enactment of such a law by Congress would be the defeat in the very next election of the party responsible for it, followed by the immediate repeal of the obnoxious act. What, then, would be gained by such a course? The only way in which impartial suffrage can be permanently and constitutionally established is by the agency of the States, each acting in the matter for itself. A correspondent of the OREGONIAN, in recent letters, has advocated the doctrine of Congressional interference; and we make these remarks partly with reference to the position taken by him. We expect that the time will come when color will not be the test of suffrage; but the change must be introduced by the States themselves.

Horatio's Premonition.

When Seymour was nominated he said that he could not accept "without putting himself and the Democratic party in peril." In this instance, whether consciously or unconsciously, he departed far enough from his usual style and habit to tell one truth. He thought the odiously disloyal record he had made during the rebellion would put him and his party "in peril;" and without doubt he was entirely right in his supposition. When he witnesses the result in November he will doubtless recall the admonitions given him by his "prophetic soul" in the Convention. No man with such a record as his can be elected President. The country will never elevate to the Chief Magistracy any man prominently identified with the factious, semi-treasonable opposition to the war. Seymour cannot be elected, because the people will not turn round and condemn themselves for putting down the rebellion. This is what those who support Seymour are asked to do; and if he should be elected, this is the interpretation which would be given to the victory. The Democratic candidate, therefore, is quite right in supposing that the people will never stultify themselves in this ridiculous manner. In opposing and resisting every measure for maintaining the authority of the Government and enforcing its laws, Seymour stood with Pendleton and Vallandigham; and he is entirely correct in his conjecture that his disloyal conduct has not been forgotten, and that the remembrance of it will "imperil" the party which has accepted him as its candidate!

Coin Contracts.

The bill providing that all contracts hereafter made specifically payable in coin shall be valid and may be enforced according to the terms, has, we believe, passed Congress. That such a step would tend to the establishment of solid values in the business of the country is quite evident; hence there would seem to be good reason why it should be taken. The effect of a law of this kind will be to protect a large class of business men who prefer to conduct their operations on a solid foundation. Contracts in paper will therefore diminish, and the more solid and permanent standard will, at a period not very far distant, be accepted as the controlling basis of the country. "It is easy to see," says a leading Eastern journal, "that a general return to specie values will be a result of the natural operations of the laws of trade, without compulsion, injustice, forcing any values, or causing any arbitrary losses. The transition will be imperceptible, and therefore, most convenient and practicable. And it will be irresistible, for conflicts between sound principles and unsound theories can always have but one ultimate result. We regard, therefore, this measure as of far more effective and salutary benefit to the business of the country, than could be achieved by the tinkering of the currency doctors in a life time."

Discontinuance of the Freedmen's Bureau.

A bill recently passed by Congress absolutely discontinues the Freedmen's Bureau on and after the first day of January next. This knocks a plank out of the Democratic platform, as several more have been knocked out by the admission of the larger number of the late insurrectionary States to representation in Congress.

Since the Bureau has been in operation it has been quite as much a white man's as a freedmen's Bureau. In several States it has rendered far more aid to whites than to blacks. It has been the means of saving large numbers of persons of both races from actual starvation. The cost of the Bureau has been a little more than two million dollars per year. No other humane institution has ever been assailed so bitterly as this has been by Copperhead editors, who have been laboring to make capital for their party by pursuing their detestable course of misrepresentation.

The Time's Washington special thus explains the situation between Mr. McCulloch and the President:

"Secretary McCulloch finds himself in a very embarrassing position. Some months ago, he and all the other Cabinet officers informed Mr. Johnson that their resignations were at his disposal whenever he thought he could strengthen himself by their retirement. The President assured them that he wanted them all to remain, that everything was lovely, &c. In this position every Cabinet office but the Secretary of War stands to-day. It is only necessary for Mr. Johnson to say to Mr. McCulloch, your resignation is accepted, and the latter will immediately be put in writing and the Secretary retire. But the President insists that Mr. McCulloch's resignation is not in his hands, and that he cannot get rid of him except by removal. This he is afraid to do, so he joins the ranks of Mr. McCulloch's assailants, and intimates indirectly that his resignation will relieve him of a great deal of embarrassment. If Mr. McCulloch now resigns, he yields in the face of an indecent pressure, and a gang of plunderers of the Treasury will secure an important victory. It will be seen, therefore, that his present position is not as comfortable as it might be."

EXTRAORDINARY SPEED.—The messengers of Wells, Fargo & Co., and of the Union Pacific Express, have tough trials of speed in going by Pony line from Reno to Virginia City—twenty-two miles. So far, Wells, Fargo & Co. have beaten every trip. July 3d their Messenger made the distance in fifty-nine minutes, beating his rival three minutes.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JULY 18.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

Disturbances in Texas.

GALVESTON, July 17.—A serious riot commenced on the evening of the 15th, at Millican. It appears that a mob of about twenty-five negroes, led by a white school teacher and a negro, attempted to hang a man named Wm. H. Widay. White citizens interfered to prevent the execution, and the result was the death of 10 or 12 negroes. Next day the numbers were increased on both sides and there was skirmishing during the day, the estimated casualties being 25. A small detachment of troops arrived there last night and dispersed the rioters, after killing three of the latter number. From 300 to 500 had fortified themselves near Millican. The entire loss is between 50 and 60 persons.

Death of Mrs. Gen. Hooker.

Mrs. Gen. Hooker died at Watertown, near New York, on Wednesday.

Georgia Legislature.

ATLANTA, July 17.—In the Senate to day, the Committee of Investigation reported nine members as eligible under the terms of the document sent in by Gov. Bullock. The report was defeated by 53 to 22. Conder (Dem.) defended the accused. He said they were warm Union men during the war.

In the House two members were found ineligible. During the decision of the case the House adjourned.

The Third Party—Hot Weather Continues.

The hot weather continues, and numerous deaths have occurred in all parts of the country from sunstroke.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The master masons at a meeting last night, resolved to continue against the brick layers on a strike, by which 30,000 other mechanics are kept out of work.

The New Tax Bill.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The new tax bill, though not so long as the former bills of this kind, is very lengthy and it is difficult to give a satisfactory abstract of its provisions in compass brief enough for the ordinary form of newspaper dispatches. Tax on the article of whisky is fixed at 50 cents. Wholesale dealers pay $100 on annual sales if not over $50,000; one dollar per $100 on sales above that limit, or one per cent. on all sales. Retail dealers pay $25 tax, and are to be collected at the distillery. Whisky or rum may be exported allowing a drawback of 60 cents per gallon.

From Hayti.

HAVANA, July 18.—Dispatches give Hayti dates to July 11th.

President Salnave has proclaimed himself Emperor and has fortified the Capital. He had issued a decree banishing all who sought refuge in foreign countries. Three days' warning were given, at the expiration of which they would be treated as bandits.

South America.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, July 17.—In the House of Commons, in reply to a question by Mr. Mill, Lord Stanley said the Government would pursue the usual course in law in regard to the Fenians, Warren and Coste[illegible], who were arrested after effecting a landing in Ireland, with the alleged purpose of promoting an insurrection. Some delay in the proceedings has been caused by the necessity of procuring evidence from the United States. In regard to the Fenians sentenced and convicted, Lord Stanley said the time had not yet come for a revision of their cases.

The Duke de Montpensier, exiled from Spain, has arrived in Central Portugal. It is now reported that the exile of the Duke was caused by his refusal to obey orders, except received direct from the Queen. Other Liberal Generals were exiled in consequence of alleged sympathy with the Duke.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The Coroner's jury in the Oakland Fourth of July calamity, yesterday rendered a second verdict which highly censures the Chief Engineer in charge of the construction of the new wharf now used by the company, and also superintendent Cohen for accepting the same. The verdict may be considered an impartial one, from the fact that Mr. Cohen was present during the examination of witnesses, and all the testimony he desired to introduce, was heard.

Last evening at Congress Hall one of the largest Grant and Colfax meetings of the campaign was held. Speeches were made by Judges Batchelder and Tyler.

The British ship Cormorant arrived from Liverpool last night. Thomas Waterfield, passenger, was missed June 15th, and it was supposed he had fallen overboard.

The attempted revolution in all parts of Mexico, of late appears to be attended with no permanent success. President Juarez, writing from the City of Mexico, under date of June 26th, says the pronouncimento of the Sierra at Querretaro is not of a formidable character, and Gen. Escobedo, who has gone there, will soon restore order. That of Yucatan, in the State of Puebla, is of similar character. Alatorre has gone to put it down. That of Aurelano Rivera, near the capital, has already been quieted.

The Union primaries at Petaluma, yesterday, were mainly contested between the friends of Westmoreland and Hartson, candidates for Congress. Westmoreland carried the 15 delegates in this city.

At Santa Rosa yesterday, Ed. Bogart, stage driver, tried for robbing Wells, Fargo & Co's treasure box, was found guilty. Great effort was made on part of the defense to acquit him and several prominent lawyers of the State took part on both sides.

Large and enthusiastic Democratic mass meetings were held yesterday at San Leandro, Santa Rosa and San Jose. Gov. Haight and Lt. Gov. Holden were among the speakers who addressed the meeting at San Leandro.

Judge Dwinelle yesterday, rendered judgment for the plaintiff for $10,000 in the breach of promise suit of Rufugio Valdesio vs. C. A. Robinson. The defendant failed to answer or appear.

Shipping.

Sailed—Ship Elizabeth Kimball for Teekalet.

STOCKTON, July 18.—The Democrats of this city held a large torchlight procession last evening, numbering about 450 persons. After marching through the principal streets, they halted at the Agricultural Hall and were addressed by Col. Hult, of San Francisco, Gen. Booker and Judge Budd, of Stockton. Very much enthusiasm was manifested throughout the entire evening.

Secretary Schofield has transmitted to the House Committee on Military Affairs, a statement of the estimated diminution of the army by expiration of term of service, death and desertion up to January 1st, 1869, and July 1st, of the same year, as follows: Cavalry to January 1st, 1869, 4,113; to July 1st, 1869, 6,347. Artillery, to January 1st, 1,837 to July 1st, 3,202. Infantry, to January 1st, 12,096; to July 1st, 21,002. Should no further enlistments be made, the number of the enlisted men of the three arms of the service will be on the dates aforesaid as follows: Cavalry, January 1st, 1869, 5,455; July 1st, 3,224. Artillery, January 1st, 3,581; July 1st, 2,210. Infantry, January 1st, 20,731; July 1st, 11,725.

STATE ITEMS.

Meek, the old mountaineer, started on Tuesday with a party of fifteen men to search for the old emigrant diggings. The party appear very confident of success.

The Unionist says that Secretary May is having the Senate chamber and Legislative Hall fitted up for the reception of the Legislature.

The Annual Commencement Exercises in Wallamet University will begin on the 23d inst.

The Corvallis paper says: On last Saturday night, about 11 o'clock, Messrs. Horning & Groves' Carding Machine, on Oak creek, one and a half miles southwest of this city, was destroyed by fire. Loss about $1,000. No insurance. This calamity falls peculiarly hard on Mr. William Groves, as about all he had was in this property. Our citizens are rallying to his relief, and we doubt not the means for replacing the machinery will soon be raised.

On Monday last, in King's Valley, Benton county, says the Gazette, Lazarus Vanbebber, an old resident, met with a serious, if not fatal accident, by the breaking of some portion of his reaper, at which the horses took fright, throwing him in front of the machine, which passed over him. His shoulder was broken, head and body scratched and bruised, and received internal injuries. Dr. Sharples was called, and dressed his wounds.

The prospects of Corvallis College are flattering. The Gazette says the next term will open under more favorable auspices than any previous one.

In the wealthy county of Linn, which has long been under Democratic rule, county orders are selling for seventy-five cents on the dollar. A very common result of Democratic administration.

E. P. Henderson, T. M. Martin, and C. H. Mattoon, Committee of the State Teachers' Institute, give the following notice: Teachers and others coming from a distance to attend, "The Teachers' State Institute," upon arriving in Eugene, are requested to report themselves at the residence of E. P. Henderson, on the East side of the Plaza, where they will find one of the Committee, ready to escort them to a home pro tempore.

The proceeds of Applegate's lecture on Mohammed, lately delivered at Eugene City, for the benefit of a church building at that place, was five hundred dollars.

THE WAR ON SECRETARY MCCULLOCH.—The National Intelligencer continues to vomit its Billingsgate upon Secretary McCulloch, and abuses him with all the vulgarity that is the natural characteristic of its conductors, it says:

Such insensibility, such a gross and shameless greed for office, is a fit sequel to an era of Radical corruption and profligacy inaugurated in this department—the cotton thieving, the gold sales, the claim ring, the abandonment of the public revenue by hundreds of millions, and the protection of Radical whiskey robbery and corruptionists in office. It is a natural proceeding on the part of one who, while the impeachment trial was pending, made overtures to Mr. Wade's friends to be retained in the Treasury in the event of the President's conviction and expulsion—him to whose generous forbearance he was indebted for his retention in office, and upon whose credulity he had so freely practiced. Does Mr. McCulloch dream that this abortive intrigue is not fully known to the President, and has not been known to him for weeks past? And how does he suppose the President and every other upright gentleman must regard such a betrayal? We believe even Mr. Wade and his friends were shocked by the proposition.

As Mr. McCulloch is by no means squeamish, it is time the President should be fastidious in respect to one who cannot take a hint, but must needs wait to be driven out of office. If the President has any idea of allowing his name to be presented at New York, he must know that presenting himself with Mr. McCulloch for an official associate, he cannot expect a vote which will necessarily be an endorsement of both. He has no right to encumber himself with any such load, and still less has he any right to saddle the great Conservative party, at the outset of his campaign, with a weight so burdensome and grievous. They mean to start fair in this great race. They will not combat in the strife with traitors by their side. They want no Mr. McCullochs to carry their banner and pass to and fro between the lines of the opposing hosts. In the name of the great Conservative party, of a tax-ridden and suffering people, every great industrial interest of the land, of decorum, justice and official purity, we demand that this unworthy incumbent shall cease to hold office even for a single day. If there be not nerve and decision enough to deal with the case, the popular condemnation will fall on the President and Secretary alike. The honest people of the land, who detest the latter, will quietly avoid the former, and pronounce regretfully that he lacked the vigor, the decision and the promptness to give any value to patriotic intentions, and a just conception of public duty. The conspicuous retention of such a Secretary, with such results to the public revenues, and such wide-spread demoralization, will completely eclipse an earlier and creditable career of hostility to profligacy and corruption. The historian may be apt to write that the germ of uprightness and reform has never developed into the right fruit and flower.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.—We clip the following paragraphs from the Times' produce report of the 14th:

Wheat—Receipts to-day are the largest since the first arrival of new crop. A large portion is taken by Australian and Eastern demand, and is discharged directly into ship. Much of this is filled on contract, so that sales are not reported. A sample of a small lot of old Oregon milling was exhibited on 'Change to-day—the first for nearly three weeks—held at $2 25. The market for new is firm at $1 85@1 90. Sales to-day include Humboldt choice milling, to up country millers, at $1 90.

Oats—The market is unchanged and dull. We continue quotations at $2 2[illegible].

Bran—In demand. The supply of local mills is taken at $30 ⅌ ton, as rapidly as it is produced. Round lots are quotable at $27 50@28 50 ⅌ ton.

Middlings—Continue in good demand at unchanged quotations. Feed, $37 50@38 50; Fine, $40@45.

Dairy Produce—Butter—In consequence of free imports from the East, butter in firkins is drooping. Very little of the last receipts per steamer is choice State dairy, the most of it being Western, which we understand is offering at 30c. The small lot of State dairy is held at 35c. The steamer which left New York on the 9th took 1150 firkins, which increases the shipment this year to 6050 firkins as against 2614 firkins for the corresponding period last year. Inasmuch as our State produces a supply ample for its own requirement, and soon will have a surplus for export, those heavy shipments from the East are unwarranted, and can but result in a loss to the shippers. It is thought by consignees that there will be no additional ventures of importance this year. In consequence of an anticipated decline, dairymen are now making more free consignments, thus tending to still further depress the market. California in firkin is dull at 32½c. Of fresh roll the supply continues somewhat limited, which still commands 33@35c.

Cheese—Is dull of sale. Stocks are full but not in excess. We note a sale of 75 cases, ex-steamer, at a low figure. We quote jobbing rates, California, 14@16c; Eastern, 17@18c—round lots, 2@3c off.

Hay—Receipts continue light. The market is firm at $10@15.

WHILE SECRETARY SEWARD IS continuing to purchase additional territory, the citizens of Oregon should thereby be reminded to continue purchasing their goods at the lowest prices possible of KOHN & FISHEL. Their stock of clothing they intend selling regardless of cost to make room for their immense fall stock soon to arrive; and their stock of dry goods they are selling at cost to give the ladies an opportunity to buy at extremely low prices.

Great Expectations!

Are frequently formed of certain remedies, but disappointment often is the result. Such cannot be said of that now universally used Cordial and Tonic,

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which has attained a reputation that leaves far and away behind all other preparations. Its wonderful tonic properties, its delicious taste, its powerful restorative powers, all combine to stamp it as the ne plus ultra of Bitters. Possibly it inspired Timothy Titcomb to write his poem of

"BITTER SWEET."

Every one afflicted with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Headache, General Debility, or Stomach Affections, may rely on it as a pleasant and sure cure. Sold all the world over.

... On Saturday afternoon, a recently discharged soldier named Albert Smith, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head while riding alone in a buggy on the McAdamized road. About 3 o'clock, Mr. John Hughes, one of the proprietors of the White House, noticed a horse and buggy passing, the horse moving at a quiet walk, with a man apparently lying asleep on the seat. Stopping the horse, Mr. Hughes discovered that the man was dead. The body was taken into a house near by and information was sent to the Coroner who summoned a jury—Messrs. J. K. Watt, J. D. Reynolds, J. Harrington, G. Walsh and D. McDonald—and repaired to the place. The jury, after an examination into such facts as were known, returned the following verdict:

"We the undersigned jurors, after careful examination, do believe that the person found, is named Albert Smith, and that he came to his death by his own hand, on about the hour of 3 o'clock P. M. this July 18th, A. D. 1868, having shot himself through the head with a Colt's revolver."

The deceased had hired the horse and buggy from the stables of Godard & Lake, and just before starting had borrowed a Colt's revolver from a friend. In his pockets were found a discharge from Capt. E. M. Baker's company "F," 23d U. S. Infantry, dated July 6th 1868. On the back of the discharge was an endorsement to the effect that the deceased had been paid off at Portland, July 11th,—$485. Besides the discharge another writing was found of which the following is a copy:

"I am of Scotch descent and of good parentage. When I was eight years old, my father died; he was a surgeon by profession. I then ran away from home, and since that time I have not seen a happy day. When the war broke out, I went to jumping bounties. In 1865 I was in North Carolina. I was leader of a band of robbers. I was captured by a Yankee boy, and exposed. I would have been shot but made my escape. I was then seventeen years of age. From there I went to New Orleans, and enlisted in the First Cavalry. Last fall a friend of mine was murdered in the Dalles, by a Sergeant of the Company. In a short time I went below, and saw the Sergeant there and shot him also, but for that I am not sorry. I do not wish to live any longer. I have seen enough of the world. I cannot live in wealth, and this world is nothing without it. Let the world say of me what it pleases. Let all good Christians pray for my soul, and may God forgive me."

This last paper had no signature, but it is believed to have been the writing and the confession of the deceased. The remains were brought to this city Saturday evening.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

PORTLAND, OREGON, July 14, 1868.

P. D. MOORE, Esq., SIR—

The undersigned having witnessed the exhibition in this city yesterday of your "Extinguisher," or Portable Self Acting Fire Engine, would state that the first experiment of a fire kindled outside of the building erected in the rear of the Central Public School House, made by using shavings, staves, tar, &c., was effectually extinguished with one machine in a short time; that the second experiment of a fire in the inside of the building, made by using shavings, kerosene, staves and dry stuff, was also promptly extinguished by the use of one machine in less than three minutes. The third experiment was left to the control of the Fire Department, under the direction of the Chief Engineer, and the building was fired inside and outside, and when the fire was well under way the Chief Engineer gave the order to "extinguish," and the fire was effectually put out in about six minutes. A brisk breeze was blowing at the time, and we pronounce the experiment successful and satisfactory. We are satisfied that the "EXTINGUISHER" is very valuable for what it claims, namely, the prompt extinguishment of fires in their earlier stages, and being portable, self-acting and always ready at a moment's notice, would, if generally introduced, save much valuable property from destruction, and we regard it as a valuable auxiliary to the Fire Department. They are indispensable in those localities where no steam or other fire engine is in use, and we recommend their use generally in dwellings, stores, hotels, and public buildings.

Very respectfully,
W. H. WEED,
Chief Engineer Portland Fire Department.

ON BOARD THE "ALASKA," Portland, July 13, 1868.

P. D. MOORE, Esq.—Sir: I have just returned from witnessing the operations of your "Extinguisher," or Portable Self-Acting Fire Engine, and confess I was both surprised and highly pleased with its success.

I have no doubt whatever of its efficiency and adaptation to putting out fires in their earlier stages, however combustible the materials may be that are burning. Its action on a flame is really magical. They should be in every house of any value, or which contains valuable property, as well as on board of vessels. No one can estimate the additional security they give to both life and property. You will please furnish me two of the No. 2 size immediately, for the Alaska, as I sail for Honolulu to-morrow morning. Very respectfully,
R. CALHOUN,
Master of schooner "Alaska."

CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against M... and the evil affects of unwholesome water; invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels;
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find ... and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produces effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The Wickedest Man in New York

WHO HE IS — WHERE HE LIVES — ALL ABOUT HIM

He goes by the name of John Allyn. He lives at No. 304 Water street. He keeps a [illegible] there. He is about [illegible] years old. He is reputed to be worth one hundred thousand dollars, more or less, [illegible] worth over seventy thousand. He has three brothers who are clergymen, two of them being Presbyterians and the third a Baptist, and is reported to have [illegible] minister of the gospel himself. He is known formerly to have [illegible] and is a man of education and [illegible] power. He was [illegible] good fellow in many respects. We do not find [illegible] he could never have attained unto the bad eminence of being the wickedest man in New York.

Take him for all in all, our wickedest man is a phenomenon. He reads the bible to his dance house girls, and his favorite papers are the New York Observer and Independent. He takes them regularly and reads them. We have repeatedly seen them lying on the counter of his bar room, amid decanters and glasses, along with the daily Herald and the Sun. We have also seen a dozen copies of the Little Wanderer's Friend at a time scattered about his place, for he takes an interest in mission work and goes in generally for progress for other people.

The wickedest man is the only entity appertaining to the shady side of New York life, which we have been unable to fathom, analyze and account for. But he is too much for us. Why a human being of his education, natural tastes, force of character and wealth should continue to live in a Water street dance house and bring up his children in a soul destroying atmosphere of sin and degradation, is more than we can comprehend.

The first time we entered John Allyn's dance house we found it in full blast. The hour was eleven in the evening. There were thirteen girls in the saloon, three musicians in the orchestra, and seven customers submitting to the blandishments of an equal number of the ballet-dressed syrens who pervaded the room. Our party consisted of the policeman who accompanied us, three clergymen on the look out for the elephant, Mr Albert C. Arnold, of the Howard Mission, and the writer.

The Wickedest Man was in his glory. Things were moving briskly. He gave us all a hearty welcome, ordered the orchestra to do their best, and told the girls to "break out hearts." A vigorous dance followed, after which the proprietor called out:

"Hartford, go up stairs and get my baby."

Hartford turned out to be one of the girls, who immediately disappeared, and soon returned, bearing in her arms an undressed sleepy child, wrapped in a shawl. This was the juvenile prodigy. His father took him in his arms with a glow of pride and affection.

"Now, gentlemen, you are writers, philosophers and preachers, but I'll show you that my baby knows as much as any of you. He's hell on reading, writing, praying and fighting."

And without more ado, he stood the sleepy little fellow upon the floor and began to catechise him in ancient history, both sacred and profane, and then in modern history, geography, the political history of the United States, etc., etc., with a result which astounded all. Suddenly he exclaimed:

"Chester, give us a song."

And Chester, for that is the child's name, gave us a song.

"Now, Chester, give us a break-down."

"Now, Chester, give us a prayer."

And the child recited, first, the Lord's Prayer, and then others in succession, mixed with which were such ribaldry and profanity on the father's part as cut us to the heart. And here it was that we got a glimpse of the [illegible] wickedness of the man—wicked [illegible] him unknown, and all the worse because of his unconsciousness of it; wickedness which is leading him to train up that idolized boy in a way and in an atmosphere which will yet make him an object of loathing even to his own heart.

For that dance house child there seems to be no spiritual hope. The sacred and the profane are so intermingled in his child understanding, that he will never be able to tell which is profane, and his nature being dogged and combative, he will grow up into the highest possible type of wickedness, if he grows up at all. Of the thousands of painful [illegible] wherewith we have met in this city, that of little Chester Allen gives us about the keenest pang.

After the infant phenomenon had been sent back to bed, his father asked our party if we wouldn't "mix in" and have a dance with the girls.

"It'll do you good," said he, "to trip it a little on the light fantastic. Besides, I like to do the fair thing by distinguished visitors. I'm fond of literary people, and especially of clergymen. I've three brothers myself who adorn the sacred calling, and grit and grace run through the family like the Tigris and the Jordan through the Holy Land. Go in, gentlemen, the girls shan't hurt you. I'll watch over you like a hen over her chickens, and you shall leave my premises as virtuous as you came in! Ha! ha! Come, what shall it be?"

On being assured that we would not "trip it on the light fantastic," he asked us if we (that is, our party) would not favor the girls with a song, whereupon Mr Arnold suggested that we should all sing together, and asked the girls what they would like best. Several of th[illegible] immediately responded in favor of "There is Rest for the Weary."

"Do you know that?" one of the clergymen asked.

"Yes," answered at least half-a-dozen of the girls.

"Where did you learn it?" asked another of the clergymen.

"At Sabbath school," was the reply.

We all looked at one another. Here was a revelation. The girls had been brought up to attend Sabbath school! Perhaps they were the daughters of Christian parents! But we had not time to pursue this painful speculation, for the girls began to sing—

> In the Christian's home in Glory
> There is a land of rest,
> And my Savior's gone before me,
> To fulfill my soul's request.
> Chorus—There is rest for the weary,
> There is rest for you,
> On the other side of Jordan,
> In the sweet fields of Eden,
> Where the tree of life is blooming,
> There is rest for you.

And oh, with what fervor and pathos they sang, especially the chorus—which at the end of each verse they sang three times over, some of them, at last, weeping as they sang.

Since that occasion we have repeatedly visited the abode of the Wickedest Man in New York, for the purpose of "studying him up," and of trying to hit upon some means of inducing him to abandon his course of life, and of saving his boy. For in truth we not only feel an interest in, but also rather like him, wicked as he is. And so does nearly everybody whom we have taken to see him, and we have taken scores—most of them clergymen.

But all our efforts to get any vital hold up on him have been in vain. He is always cordial, always ready to let the girls have a spiritual sing; will even permit a little exhortation to them in his dancing saloon, and is free with his Observer and Independent. But he keeps on his way with unyielding pertinacity.

On one occasion a party of us suggested that he should let us hold a prayer meeting in his saloon. After a little reflection he replied:

"Well, no, gentlemen, I can't go that. You know that every man must have regard to his profession and the opinion of his neighbors. What with my Observer and Independent, and you fellows coming here and singing camp-meeting hymns, I am already looked upon in the neighborhood as being rather loose and unsound; and if, on top of all that, I should let you hold a prayer meeting here, I should lose what little character I've left."

But our friend Arnold, of the Howard Mission, was determined to achieve the prayer meeting. When we arrived it was half past twelve, the window shutters were closed, and we feared we were too late. But a light shone through the window over the door, and, on application, we were admitted, and received a hearty welcome. Allen was just then un[illegible] a sharp [illegible] process [illegible] the [illegible] ... [illegible]

[illegible] gentlemen, [illegible] a business man to [illegible] I think [illegible] just [illegible] my advice and what [illegible] truck about [illegible] you just taking [illegible] and you'll find the investment [illegible] Put [illegible] the [illegible] Walker.

We went in and found the girls smiling, [illegible] and [illegible] Allen, one [illegible] proposed to have the girls dance for us, but [illegible]

"Well then, Arnold, let's have a song," he exclaimed.

Mr Arnold as usual asked the girls what they would like to hear, and they at once asked for their favorite, "There is rest for the weary."

At the conclusion of the song, Mr Arnold believed that the appointed hour had come, and tapping Allen on the shoulder, he said:

"Well, John, old boy, give us your hand. I feel just like praying here with you."

Allen took the extended hand, and gruffly said:

"What! pray? Do you mean pray? No, sir, never!"

"Well, John," responded Mr Arnold, "I am going to pray here anyhow. If I don't pray loud, I'll pray soft. You shan't close the prayer at any rate."

"Well, Arnold, mind now, if you pray I won't hear you. Mind that! I don't know anything about it. I won't hear you."

And backing slowly out of the room, and repeating "I won't hear you," over and over again, Allen went through the door leading to the bar and closed it after him.

Mr Arnold then invited the girls to join in prayer with him, which they did, some of them kneeling on the floor, as did the visitors, and others bowing their heads upon their hands, while Allen peered through the window of the partition door upon the singular scene.

Mr Arnold's heart was almost too full for utterance, but his fervor soon unloosed his tongue, and he poured out a simple, direct and heartfelt prayer, which told powerfully upon the hearers. Many of the girls arose sobbing to their feet, and several of them crowded around Mr Arnold, and begged him in the name of God to take them from that place. They would work their hands off if honest work could be got for them; they would submit to any hardship if they could only be restored to opportunities for virtue and a Christian life.

Poor Arnold! He was the picture of despair. It came upon him, all at once, that there is no help for such this side the grave. He had at last conquered his opportunity and prayed with these children of sin and shame, and now that they were calling upon him to answer his own prayer—to give them a chance to eat the bread of life—he had to put them off with the stone of evasion.

Take them from that place! Where could he take them? In all this Christian land there is not a Christian home that would open its doors to a repentant female sinner, except to turn her out of the house.

On calling upon Mr. Arnold, the next day, we found him in his room at the Mission, with his head bowed upon the table as though in prayer. Looking up at us with blazing eyes, he exclaimed:

"Sir, what is to be done about this?"

"About what?" we asked.

"These poor girls," he replied. "I have been thinking and praying, and praying and thinking over it all night, but I can see no light, sir, (pressing his head between his hands), I shall go mad."

Comfort for those prematurely gray—whom the gods love dye young.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands [illegible] male and female are [illegible] which [illegible] the system. [illegible] to hard [illegible] broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage, or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation, thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians and friends attend to these alarming facts with any of those horrible afflictions [illegible] see that they are carefully attended to [illegible]. Send them in time to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases a specialty for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] the welfare of their friends, to beware of the many pretended doctors who infest [illegible] publishing their skill in curing all diseases [illegible] imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. [illegible] and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, [illegible] by letter, and have a more effectual, new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails in effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these horrible maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use. [illegible] sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus and [illegible] certificates [illegible]. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and [illegible] places, are tradesmen, and became [illegible] to work at their [illegible] blacksmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, [illegible] keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupation in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets. From advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten are bogus; there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon [illegible] deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates or [illegible] letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

DR. J. C. YOUNG,
Medical and Surgical
INSTITUTE.

- CONSULTATION IN ALL CASES, FREE.
- CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.
- IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRESY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, established by Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, and which have done so much to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity give assurance of proper and delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with its insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.

READ! READ

I am aware that by dwelling upon so[illegible] jects as the decay of manly vigor through the vital principle of life, the ignorant may [illegible] tive, but the desire to point out to those who [illegible] guish and decay, the true cause of their suffer[illegible] great an incentive to be forced into abeyance [illegible] tended the terrible disease of Seminal W[illegible] is but the practical specialist who devotes his [illegible] treatment can tell; but its presence can be [illegible] the most inexperienced by noting the following [illegible] toms: Weakness of the back and limbs; [illegible] feelings, loss of muscular power, nervo[illegible] cold feet or hands accompanied by hot [illegible] of co[illegible] mption; short breath; flushings of the [illegible] sion to society, confusion of the mind, loss of [illegible] nightly emissions, colorless, slight dis[illegible] least excitement, trembling, palpitation of [illegible] rage or appetite, variable temper, etc.

YOUNG MAN, if you experience any of the [illegible] symptoms enumerated above, pause to [illegible] present is the golden moment in which you [illegible] health and happiness. You may feel strong, [illegible] you have ever practiced the vice of self-a[illegible] SEMINAL DRAINS, you have the seeds of weak[illegible] system, and their undermining influence will, sooner or later, dash the fair edifice of your strength to the ground, leaving you a helpless object [illegible]. It is not a disease that declares itself at once. Therein lies its greatest danger, for while the patient is being [illegible] affection of the Heart, Lungs, Brain, or Dig[illegible] functions, he sinks into a general debility that soon adds him to the list of the victims of the terrible [illegible] Weakness.

See in the best form and love [illegible] victim of the fascinating vice! Mark the [illegible] destructive complaint in the hollow ch[illegible]

Drowsiness is one of the premonit[illegible] first it is easily shaken off, but it grows [illegible] great disinclination to pursue his regular [illegible] mind becomes apprehensive, and restless [illegible] days of depression.

It is the nature of the complaint to [illegible] changes that leave the poor victim but little hope of recovery. In a single instant it may wither your fond hopes and blast your honest aspirations.

Marriage is sought by a natural impulse as a hope of relief. This is an error of the first magnitude, the system, unprepared for the exigencies of the [illegible] denly fails, and he finds himself in a [illegible] from which there is but the slightest hope of [illegible]. Or if the marriage should result in offspring, they are puny, distorted, decrepid, and de[illegible] state. This is [illegible] ble to both sexes, whether married or single, and at all times of life.

Do not delay if you feel any of the sympt[illegible] rible complaint, or if your acts have been [illegible] to them, but by instant application secure to [illegible] only hope of health and happiness. The Doctor uses no mercury or other deleterious drugs—cures, when [illegible] time, always guaranteed, and full and proper [illegible] stored.

The afflicted are assured of every confidence.

PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH VE-NEREAL.

During the seventeen years since the [illegible] of the Institute, the number of cases of Venereal that have been treated show a record unequalled by any [illegible] in the world, and the success that has invariably [illegible] the course of treatment,

Without Mercury or other Deleterious Drugs,

Shows conclusively the use of them to be not only uncalled for, but actually dangerous, for it is a [illegible] established medical principle that those [illegible] by entering the blood, ruin the constitution and [illegible] life.

The Doctor effects a cure in recent cases in a few days, and finds no difficulty in curing those of long [illegible] without submitting the patient to such treatment [illegible] draw upon him the slightest suspicion, or [illegible] neglect his business, whether in-doors or without. The diet need not be changed. Cures always guaranteed, or no pay required.

IMPORTANT TO FE[illegible]AL[illegible]

When a female is in trouble or afflicted with [illegible] requires medical or surgical assistance, the inquiry should be: Where is there a physician competent to afford [illegible] relief, and whose respectable standing in society will recommend him to the confidence of the community? The Doctor understanding how imperatively [illegible] requirements are, feels called upon to interpose, and by calling the attention of the afflicted to the fact that he has been a Professor of Obstetrics and Female Diseases for twenty years, and is fully qualified to administer in all cases, both medically and surgically, not in a superficial way, but in as thorough a manner as years of study and [illegible]—both in hospitals and private families—can [illegible] them from the hands of the unqualified, un[illegible] or designing. Therefore, families can rely upon him as upon a father. All in affliction can find in him one [illegible] and sympathising friend [illegible] in trouble, to whose secrecy the utmost confidence can be placed. Consultation by letter or otherwise free. Cures guaranteed in all weakness and trouble incidental to the sex. Private apartments are provided when desired, [illegible] be had all the advantages of unremitted attention of the Doctor and the most skillful and faithful nurses.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Persons, either male or female, residing in the interior, are often deterred from [illegible] the Doctor because they cannot spare the time, nor incur the expense of a visit to the city. To such he would say that a plain statement of the symptoms and [illegible] bearing upon the complaint will enable him to prepare for them so that they can be cured at home. None need have any false delicacy about writing, no matter what their nature of their ailment [illegible], as the communication will be seen by none except the Doctor, and will be treated with the [illegible], and if desired are either be returned or [illegible].

Consultation Free.
